

Do You Talk to Strangers?

International Day of
Open Homes,
Listening Hearts
June 2005

Every day we see news of conflicts and war. Hate and fear dominate the headlines. Around the world, during the month of June, individuals will join to counter the violence and injustice. But this is not a global protest against something; it is a united action for something: building community.

During the month of June individuals around the world will reach out to people with whom they wouldn't normally interact— usually of a different race, ethnicity or religion— and invite those people to share a meal and stories in their homes or communities.
